This is an unofficial announcement of Commission action. Release of the full text of a Commission order constitutes official action. See MCI v. FCC, 515 F.2d 385 (D.C. Cir. 1974).

January 18, 1994

Robert Corn-Revere has been named a partner in the law firm of Hogan & Hartson, where he will practice First Amendment and Communications law. He will join the firm on January 24.

In his letter of resignation, Mr. Corn-Revere wrote to Commissioner Quello that "[s]erving as your Legal Advisor and as Chief Counsel during the past four years has been the greatest opportunity and educational experience of my career. I was privileged to be witness to a large number of historic decisions during that time, and most especially the lasting accomplishments of your Chairmanship. My experience here has been a pleasure, both personally and professionally. I am looking forward to working with you in my new capacity as you continue your distinguished career as the Dean of FCC Commissioners. To me, you always will be 'the Boss.'"

Commenting on Mr. Corn-Revere's departure, Commissioner Quello said, "Bob leaves with our respect, affection and heartfelt thanks for his dedication and his legal expertise which reflected great credit on this office and on the FCC. We congratulate him, but especially congratulate Hogan & Hartson for acquiring one of the most brilliant communications legal minds in the business. We all wish him continued achievement in the exciting developments ahead."

Mr. Corn-Revere has been Legal Advisor to Commissioner James H. Quello since February 1990. He served as Chief Counsel to Chairman Quello from February through November 1993. Before joining the Commission, he was an associate at Hogan & Hartson from 1985 to 1990 and at Steptoe & Johnson from 1983 to 1985. Mr. Corn-Revere is a lecturer at the Communications Law Institute at the Columbus School of Law, where he teaches a seminar on First Amendment law.

Mr. Corn-Revere is a 1983 graduate of the Columbus School of Law at Catholic University. He also holds a Master's Degree in mass communications from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and a B.A. in journalism from Eastern Illinois University.

Mr. Corn-Revere lives in Lovettsville, Virginia, with his wife, Sigrid Fry-Revere, and three sons.

January 11, 1994

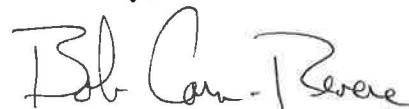

Dear Jim,

This is to inform you that I am resigning my position as your Legal Advisor, effective January 21, 1994. I will join the firm of Hogan & Hartson as a partner on January 24.

While I am excited about the upcoming professional challenges, I write this letter with a certain amount of sadness. Serving as your Legal Advisor and as Chief Counsel during the past four years has been the greatest opportunity and educational experience of my career. I was privileged to be witness to a large number of historic decisions during that time, and most especially the lasting accomplishments of your Chairmanship. My experience here has been a pleasure, both personally and professionally.

I am looking forward to working with you in my new capacity as you continue your distinguished career as the Dean of FCC Commissioners. To me, you always will be "the Boss."

Sincerely,

Robert Corn-Revere

Statement by Commissioner James H. Quello regarding resignation of his Legal Advisor, Robert Corn-Revere

Bob leaves with our respect, affection and heartfelt thanks for his dedication and his legal expertise which reflected great credit on this office and on the FCC.

We congratulate him, but we especially congratulate Hogan & Hartson for acquiring one of the most brilliant communications legal minds in the business.

We all wish him continued achievement in the exciting advance communications developments ahead.
