The Honorable James H. Quello
Commissioner
Federal Communications Commission
1919 M Street, N.W.
Suite 802
Washington, D.C. 20554

My dear Jim:

It pleased me so much to read in the trade press of your being presented with the Keystone Citizenship Award of the Pennsylvania Broadcasters Association.

My dear friend, every time I see recognition given to you by any entity, I am grateful, for you richly merit every possible honor for what you have done as one of America's great broadcasters and as the most significant person on the Federal Communications Commission since the day you came aboard under President Nixon.

I was so pleased a few days ago, Jim, in a conversation with Al Sikes and again today in a telephone call from him to hear his praise of you, salutes both personal and professional in nature.

While the Chairman has always held you in high esteem, he has come to realize in his relatively short period of time at the Commission how truly important Jim Quello has been and is to the successful operation of this increasingly important agency of our Government.

Jim, Dorothy joins me in heartiest congratulations to you, along with our warmest wishes to you and the marvelous Mary.

Very respectfully,

Ward L. Quaal
