Dear Jamie,

You deserve a medal for valor and patience way above and beyond the normal call of duty. Your concern and help were greatly appreciated by Mary and me during my hours of diagnosis, pain and treatment. It was a great comfort to see you still there with Mary at 2 AM when I emerged from the emergency room.

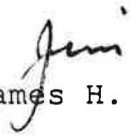

As a commissioner, I have had past charges of falling on my face but this was the first literal occurrence -- and I hope the last.

With a little make-up, I was able to walk the bride, my granddaughter, down the aisle Saturday -- even that later turned out to be an earth-shaking event. (7.4 on the Richter scale!)

More important, congratulations again for your masterful presentation before the affiliates conference. I have never attended such an upbeat positive affiliate meeting -- the stations were grateful for the Fox affiliation and through your skillful diplomacy, there were no complaints on a proposed reduction in compensation. From my observations, you have done a superb job of organizing and administering a great Fox network executive team -- Preston Padden was a wise choice and doing a great job for you and Fox.

Again, thanks for all your help during my emergency and congratulations for a most successful upbeat affiliates meeting.

Best,

James H. Quello
